.:. INTRODUCTION .:.

¶ MEN OF BETHLEHEM is issued as a book of ready utility for the newspaper offices as a ready reference for the artist and biographer. -- -- -- --

¶ The chief aim, however, is to put into the reference libraries of publishers reproductions in half tones of recent photographs of men prominent in the commercial, professional, political and social activity of Bethlehem. Men who were responsible indirectly—Men who helped in the consolidation of the communities into a Greater Bethlehem.

CHARLES MICHAEL SCHWAB

One of the country's foremost citizens and chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was born February 18, 1862, at Williamsburg, Blair County, Pa., a son of John A. and Pauline Farabaugh Schwab. He was educated in St. Francis' College at Loretto, Pa.

In 1881 he obtained employment at the Edgar Thomson Works of the Carnegie Steel Company, and in less than a year was Captain Jones' chief assistant. Upon the death of Captain Jones, he became Superintendent of the Edgar Thomson Works and in 1892, of the Homestead Works also; in 1897 was made President of the Carnegie Steel Company, and in 1901 became President of the United States Steel Corporation, continuing in that office until 1904, when he resigned to become President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, in which he holds a large interest. He became Chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in 1916, and it is under his skillful leadership that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries have developed their phenomenal growth and astonishing success.

He is a director in a large number of steel, coal, coke, and banking corporations, and a Trustee of both Lehigh and Cornell Universities. From Lehigh University in 1914, he received the degree of Doctor of Engineering; also holds a degree from Cornell University and in 1917 was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Lincoln Memorial University. He is a member of many clubs.

Public gifts bestowed by Mr. Schwab include a magnificent Roman Catholic Church at Loretto, Pa.; a church at Braddock, Pa.; a convent house at Cresson, Pa.; an Industrial School at Homestead, Pa.; a School at Weatherly, Pa.; an Auditorium to Pennsylvania State College; a Summer Sanatorium for Children, Staten Island; numerous gifts to Lehigh University, and the largest individual contribution to the new million dollar hill-to-hill bridge connecting Bethlehem, West Bethlehem, and South Bethlehem. He was chiefly instrumental in causing the consolidation of the Bethlehems under a city form of government.

He is a member of the City Planning Commission and chief guarantor of the famous Bach Choir which annually holds festivals at Lehigh University. Citizens of the community point with pride to the accomplishments of Mr. Schwab. He has given the city a band second to none in the state, and is one of the guarantors of the famous symphony orchestra. He was married in 1883 to E. Eurana Dinkey and has a beautiful mansion at No. 111 Broadway, New York, besides his home in this city.

On April 16, 1918, Mr. Schwab, following a conference with President Woodrow Wilson, was appointed Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and he immediately turned his abilities solely to the vital work of building of ships. He has complete supervision and direction of the work of shipbuilding in all of the plants of the United States. Mr. Schwab's name had been mentioned before for more than one government post, but he felt his position as head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation one of the most essential of the war industries, was of vital importance. Mr. Schwab's services were virtually commandeered by the government, meaning that his experience as a steel maker and builder of ships has been drafted for the nation to aid in the war against Germany. There can be no question that Charles M. Schwab will measure up to the tremendous task that has been assigned him, because he has never failed in anything to which he has set his hand.

ARCHIBALD JOHNSTON

First mayor of the City of Bethlehem, was born at Phoenixville, Pa., May 30, 1865, a son of Joseph and Martha E. Stroman Johnston. He was graduated from Lehigh University with the class of 1889. He entered the employ of the Bethlehem Steel Company, physical testing department, in 1889 and later was in charge of the erection and operation of the gun forging plant, the first to be established in America. He later took charge of the erection and was superintendent of the armor plate department, also the first to be built in America. In the present world war the plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company is the government's best asset. He was successively assistant general superintendent, general superintendent and since October, 1908, vice-president of the Bethlehem Steel Company; first vice-president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; second vice-president Juragua Iron Company; vice-president Bethlehem Steel Products Company; Bethlehem Iron Mines Company; director, Harlan & Hollingsworth Corporation; Samuel L. Moore and Sons Corporation; First National Bank, of Bethlehem; Trustee, Homeopathic State Hospital, Rittersville; Moravian College and Theological Seminary, of Bethlehem. Republican. Moravian. Member, Society

Mechanical Engineers; American Institute of Mining Engineers; American Iron and Steel Institute; Iron and Steel Institute (Great Britain); Theta Delta Chi; Chairman, Bethlehem Bridge Commission, appointed by Public Service Commission in 1917. Member of Union League, University (Philadelphia), Metropolitan (Washington), Railroad (New York), Lehigh Country (Allentown), Northampton Country (Easton), and Bethlehem Clubs. Mayor Johnston is the central figure in the new administration, having been prominent in the various campaigns here since October, 1916. He consented to become a candidate for Mayor only when swamped with a petition signed by nearly 5,000 of the leading citizens of the community. He is a man of rare executive ability and has an inimitable way of doing business, producing results where others fail. On February 11, 1891, he married Estelle S. Borhek, of Bethlehem. In presiding over Council, Mayor Johnston uses a gavel and block which was taken by Commissioner A. W. Schmich from the original Gemein House, erected in 1742, being the second house in Bethlehem, still standing.

EUGENE GIFFORD GRACE,

President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was born August 27, 1876, at Goshen, Cape May County, New Jersey, a son of John W. and Rebecca Morris Grace. He received his early education in Pennington Seminary, Pennington, N.J. He was graduated from Lehigh University where he was a famous base ball captain, with the class of 1899 with first honors, being class valedictorian. He also won the prize in mathematics and the Wilbur Scholarship.

On June 29, 1899, he entered the employ of the Bethlehem Steel Company in the Electrical Department; January 16, 1900, employed in Steel Making Department, Bethlehem Steel Company; June 8, 1902, appointed Superintendent of Yards and Transportation, Bethlehem Steel Company; September 2, 1905, appointed General Superintendent, Juragua Iron Company, Santiago, Cuba; February 21, 1906, appointed Assistant to General Superintendent, in charge of building Saucon Plant, Bethlehem Steel Company; June 27, 1906, elected General Superintendent, Bethlehem Steel Company; October 22, 1908, elected Director and General Manager, Bethlehem Steel Company; April 4, 1911, elected Director of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; September 18, 1911, elected Vice-President and General Manager, Bethlehem Steel Company; April 1, 1913, elected President, Bethlehem Steel Company; February 17, 1916, elected President, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, to the gigantic growth and success of which Corporation and its many subsidiaries he has been a very potent contributing force. October 30, 1917, he was elected President, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Limited, the largest shipbuilding organization in the United States.

Mr. Grace is one of the youngest big men in the steel world and has proved his worth in any emergency. He is a trustee of Lehigh University; Member of India House, Metropolitan Club, of New York; Maryland Club, of Baltimore, Md.; Director in the American Iron and Steel Institute; Member of the British Iron and Steel Institute, of London, England, and a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. On June 12, 1902, he married Marian Brown, daughter of Charles F. and Emeline Brown, of South Bethlehem, Pa.

WARREN A. WILBUR

Who is a prominent banker and manufacturer, was born May 1, 1859, in Bethlehem, Pa.

He is president of E.P. Wilbur Trust Company, of South Bethlehem, and of First National Bank, of Sayre, Pa., and a director of Lehigh Valley National Bank, of Bethlehem.

He has many and important connections with manufacturing and industrial enterprises, being president of Bethlehem Foundry and Machine Company, Jefferson Coal Company, Wilbur Coal and Coke Company, Valley Coal and Coke Company, Sayre Land Company, and Sayre Water Company; also director of Western Maryland Railway Company, Lehigh Valley Transit Company, Empire Steel and Iron Company, Guerber Engineering Company, Lehigh Car Wheel and Axle Works, Bethlehem Globe Publishing Company and others.

He is a trustee of Lehigh University and of the Estate of Asa Packer, vice-President and treasurer of St. Luke's Hospital, warden and treasurer of The Church of the Nativity, and treasurer of other organizations of the Episcopal Church; also was treasurer of the borough of South Bethlehem, Associated Charities of the Bethlehems, Children's Home, Free Libraries Association.

He is a member of many clubs—Northampton, Bethlehem, Lehigh Country, Northampton County Country, Philadelphia, Manufacturers' (Phila.), Thousand Islands, New York, Yacht, Buffalo, and others.

Mr. Wilbur was twice married — first to a daughter of the late Dr. G.B. Linderman, and several years after her decease to Miss Kate Brodhead, daughter of the late Charles Brodhead. He has one son from the first union, Robert E. Wilbur, who is president of the So. Side Business Association of Bethlehem, and is officially and actively connected with many of the leading local enterprises.

Mr. Wilbur is always and ever in the front rank of those who endeavor to do things for the betterment of civic conditions. Governor Brumbaugh recognized this by appointing him as a member of the local branch of the Committee of Public Safety, of which he has been president since its organization. His foresight and effort was shown in the development of the local Home Defense organization, which is now equipped and in training to care for emergencies which war conditions may at any time present.

H. E. LEWIS

Vice-president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Bethlehem Steel Company and Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., was born in 1882, and is one of the youngest officers of this giant industrial concern. Mr. Lewis has always taken a keen and loving interest in the community and has found time, notwithstanding his many business activities, to lend a willing hand in everything that tends to its development. Through his efforts the steel company athletic teams have established a reputation equally as great as the establishment has won in the industrial world. He is a director of the new Chamber of Commerce. He married Lottie May Ruch and is the father of two children. Mr. Lewis, in February, was chairman of the Executive Committee which handled the Knights of Columbus War Campaign Fund and it was mainly through his energy and ability that Bethlehem again went over the top," realizing $46,000.

"The Bethlehem Times in its Men of Affairs recently paid Mr. Lewis this deserving tribute:"

While Mr. Lewis is a soccer enthusiast and has given us a championship team, he takes equally as great interest in the Bethlehem Steel Corporation Baseball League, of which he is the president. The games must be on the square. 'We want rivalry, but it must be friendly and the rules of the league must be enforced.' That's President Lewis talking. Recently Wilmington played two men against Lebanon who were ineligible, so he threw the game out.

Possessed of a genial disposition he has a great host of friends. Mr. Lewis for years, prior to assuming his present position, was in charge of the cost department of the company, in which capacity he showed rare executive ability. His name is synonymous with doing things for others.

It was through his efforts that the splendid athletic field and gymnasium, on the North Side, known as B.S. Co. Athletic Field, was opened.

He takes an active interest in all civic affairs and gets considerable recreation out of golfing. Although one of the game's youngest devotees in this section he has shown himself very proficient. The same can be said of his soccer playing, and at the American game of football, too, he was a star in his day, having been quarterback for the Duquesne A.C.

Mr. Lewis is one of the most valuable men the Bethlehem Steel Company has. He is an indefatigable worker who keeps his finger on all departments of our mammoth industry.

He is a man whose integrity and sense of fairness are unquestioned. The same spirit which he has inculcated in the athletic teams, he also shows in his business relations. He is very approachable, and is held in the highest esteem by all who know him.

When he renders a decision in any matter its fairness is never questioned. While inherently a modest man, yet he has put in the public eye everything which he directs, whether athletics or Bethlehem Steel. We are sure that Mr. Schwab's prediction that he will reach the top-notch in industry will be fully realized."

DALLETT H. WILSON

Attorney at law, was born on December 3, 1879, in the city of Philadelphia. After attending the DeLancey Preparatory School in Philadelphia he went for three years to Germany and France to Study German and French. Upon his return he entered the University of Maryland Law School from which institution he graduated, and was admitted to the practice of law in the state of Maryland on January 2, 1901. He became associated with Bernard Garter, District General Counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with offices in Baltimore. Mr. Wilson then entered the legal department of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company and after remaining with them for two years, was made confidential attorney to the late John M. Mack, president of that corporation. Mr. Wilson in his capacity as confidential attorney traveled extensively and was admitted to the practice of law by the Supreme Court of California and the Court of Appeals of New York. He was retained in that position until, owing to the impairment of his health he was compelled to resign and take a much-needed rest for one year.

Subsequently he was made General Solicitor of the Lehigh & Hudson River Railroad Company and represented that Corporation in the important New Jersey tax case and it was through his efforts that the franchise assessment of the Lehigh & Hudson River Railroad Company was reduced from $1,234,000 to $382,000.

Mr. Wilson then became Assistant to the General Counsel of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, with headquarters in Philadelphia, subsequently going to Easton Court where he represented a client.

After the trial of that case Mr. Wilson determined to locate in Bethlehem; he was duly admitted to the Bar of this State and on November 13, 1913 he opened law offices in the Bethlehem Trust Company Building in the city of Bethlehem. Shortly after arriving here, realizing the great necessity for a new bridge he filed an application with the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the elimination of dangerous grade-crossings, his purpose being to have the Public Service Commission order the elimination of the dangerous grade-crossings of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company and the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at Wyandotte Street, South Bethlehem, and the crossing of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey at South Main Street, in the Borough of Bethlehem, and order the construction of a new bridge. For two years, single-handed, he fought the case through the courts and submitted during the course of these proceedings plans for the now assured Hill-to-Hill bridge. The Public Service Commission ordered the elimination of the grade crossings and allowed Mr. Wilson a period of thirty days to raise a sufficient amount of money to construct a bridge which would extend from the top of Wyandotte Street in South Bethlehem to the top of Main Street in Bethlehem. A campaign was then organized, the headquarters of which were in Mr. Wilson's offices. In five days $1,198,000 was raised for the construction of this new bridge.

Mr. Wilson is the President and owner of the Vanderstucken-Ewing Construction Company; vice president and owner of the controlling interest with Edward L. Myers, of the Times Publishing Company; director of the Bethlehem Trust Co.; director and general counsel of Henry E. Erwin and Sons; director and general counsel of the Steel City Amusement Company and director of the Chamber of Commerce. He has a large interest in the Bethlehem Cleaning and Dyeing Company and is interested in the Moving Pictures of Bethlehem. He has a large law practice and is City Solicitor of Bethlehem.

ALEXANDER C. GRAHAM

City Commissioner, manufacturer, and real estate dealer, is a typical man of affairs who always takes a prominent part in anything for the uplift and development of the community. He was born in the First Ward, South Bethlehem, July 31, 1865, the son of the late James F. and Eliza (nee Ferris) Graham and has been a resident of the ward all of his lifetime. After receiving his education in the public schools he entered the employ of his father who was engaged in the real estate business and since his death has conducted that business very successfully. Mr. Graham served three terms as a member of town Council and was burgess for one term. It was mainly through his efforts while burgess that the dangerous grade crossings in the borough were protected with safety gates. Mr. Graham is essentially a man who always has taken a deep interest in public affairs and in his public service has shown marked ability. At the November election he was elected City Commissioner by a large vote. Mr. Graham is a member of the Executive Committee and a trustee of St. Luke's Hospital; Director and member of the Executive Committee of the E.P. Wilbur Trust Company, and Brown-Borhek Company and other firms. In business and civic matters Mr. Graham has always shown sound judgment. He has one of the largest hosiery mills in the city, employing a large number of hands. In 1917 he was appointed by the Public Service Commission as a member of the Bethlehem Bridge Commission, which will have charge of the erection of the hill-to-hill bridge, for which $1,198,000 has been subscribed. Mr. Graham is vice-chairman of the Commission which plans the handsomest and largest bridge in the state. He is a member of a number of social, trade and fraternal organizations.

A. W. SCHMICH

Superintendent of Streets and Public Improvements, has been in public life for a number of years as a member of the old Bethlehem School Board. There was no more active member than he and an important chairmanship was saddled on him whose duties he did not shirk, namely, that of chairman of the Building Committee. He gave more time and thought to the schools of the East Side than probably any of his associates. Because he attended to his duties in a thorough manner he was designated as a prospective candidate for City Council soon after the consolidation election. His good-sized vote attested to the confidence the citizens had in him. For many years he was employed at the Bethlehem Steel Works, where he was superintendent. Mr. Schmich is a prominent member of the real estate committee and Board of Church Extension of the Central Moravian Church. He is enterprising and public-spirited and he will without a doubt make a special study of permanent street improvement.

DR. MITCHELL WALTER

Was mayor of South Bethlehem from 1913—1915, under the third-class city act, when the courts decreed that the election whereby the municipality become a city was an illegal one and the old borough form of government was resumed. The first mayor of South Bethlehem comes from a family of physicians, having been born May 2, 1867, a son of Dr. B. C. Walter in Farmersville. He attended the public schools and graduated from an Easton preparatory school in 1888 and Medico-Chirurgical College in 1893. He began the practice of medicine with his father at Farmersville and on February 22, 1894 moved to South Bethlehem, establishing an office at No. 23 East Fourth Street. In 1908 he purchased the handsome home at No. 102 West Fourth Street where he continues his profession. Dr. Walter has a very large practice, being progressive and energetic. He is a great admirer of horses and has several fast ones that have brought home numerous trophies. He is also a famous hunter, and has a fondness for rural life, being a member of the Hiawatha Hunting and Fishing Club. Other organizations of which he is a member are Lehigh Valley Medical Association, Fellow, American Medical Association, Knights of Pythias, B.P.O. Elks, L.O.O. Moose. The doctor is also active in the Wydnor Realty Company, is a director of the Peoples' Trust Company and president of the Lehigh Orpheum Theater Company.

PETER J. SHEEHAN

Father of the children's playground site and burgess of South Bethlehem when it joined hands with Bethlehem, was born in County Cork, Ireland, a son of the late Patrick and Ellen Sheehan, on February 21, 1875. He came to America when quite young and attended the public schools for a brief period. At the age of 11 years he carried bricks in a brick yard and then entered the employ of the Bethlehem Steel Company as a water boy, remaining in their employ in various capacities until 1893 when he took up the boxing profession in which he was quite successful. For five years he was athletic trainer for Lehigh University. He was for some time engaged in the hotel business at Fountain Hill, later acquiring the Victoria Cafe on West Third Street which he is still conducting. He was elected Burgess in 1915 by a large majority and established the record of turning in more funds from the police department than any of his predecessors. Burgess Sheehan gained his greatest distinction in his career as the champion of a permanent play-site for children. This he has practically secured, by benefits of various kinds, on Sand Island. He has been an active executive and showed rare ability in the Red Cross, Hill-to-Hill Bridge and Consolidation campaigns. He is ex-president of the Northampton County Law, Order and License League, and is a member of the Jacksonian Democratic Club. On September 6, 1905, he married Nettie R. Yochum, of Philadelphia.

A.W. LEH

Architect, was born in Easton, Pa., September 17, 1848. He received his early education in the public schools of his native city and Trach Academy. When the call for volunteers came he entered the service of the Civil War and when he was honorably discharged, June 1865, he decided to take up the art of cabinet and wood carving, which pursuit he followed until 1873, when he entered the office of Daniel Dougherty to study architecture. In 1878 he associated himself with Ritter & Beck under the firm name of Ritter, Beck & Leh, manufacturers of planing mill work. Five years later, in 1883, he opened an office for the practice of architecture which he has continuously followed to the present time. While his practice has been general in its scope, he has specialized in churches, having erected forty-one of them in various parts of the state, and school buildings, having prepared plans for thirty-one of them, including the new $300,000 high school. His strong individuality is shown in the alterations to the home of Charles M. Schwab on Fountain Hill; three wards at St. Luke's Hospital, and a number of buildings at Lehigh University. Also for residences, schools, office buildings, etc., many of which are located in this and neighboring states. He designed three churches and a handsome school building in Philadelphia. Mr. Leh is a man of strong personality, unbiased mind, judicial temperament and is a member of the Elks, Northampton Club and since 1877 has been a member of J.K. Taylor Post, G.A.R. One of the churches designed by Mr. Leh is the beautiful St. Michael's Slavic R.C. Church at Lansford, which has an 86-foot tower.

J.E. MATHEWS

Manager of Ordnance of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and City Commissioner, was born January 29, 1876, in Olney, Illinois. He is the son of J.E. and Martha (nee Antle) Mathews. He received his education in the Olney Public School and the Illinois State University, afterwards graduating from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He spent two years in the navy after graduation at the Academy, and in 1901 entered the employ of the Ordnance Department of the Steel Company in the capacity of engineer, which position he held until 1908 when he was sent to London, England, where he was in charge of the company's European business until 1913, when he again returned to Bethlehem and became manager of Ordnance in charge of all the gun, ammunition, and armor-plate business of the company which is the government's best ordnance asset. Mr. Mathews has devoted his time entirely to the development of this part of the company's business, and that he has been successful is shown by the large number of contracts that the Allies placed with the company. Mr. Mathews is a public-spirited citizen, whose popularity was shown at the November election when he was selected as one of the first city commissioners. He is an active member of the Chamber of Commerce, Bethlehem Club, University Club, Lehigh, Northampton, and Sea View Country Clubs, India House, of New York; Army and Navy Clubs of Washington, D.C., and New York. JAMES LEONARD ELLIOTT

Founder of Norway Place and Elliott Heights, was born May 6, 1858, at St. Pierre, Les Calais, France, a son of Henry and Emma (nee Turney) Elliott. He attended school in that parish for two years and at the age of 8 came to America with his parents, locating for some time at New York and Philadelphia. He began work at the farm of Louis Young, in Hanover Township, receiving 50 cents a month and board as his wages. He put in four years there and then accepted a position at the Daniels and Schatz mines, at Chickentown, driving a horse and cart, his wages being somewhat better, 60 cents a day. He then took up the trade of tailor, which he learned under William Nickum, of Bethlehem and Henry Milschack, the latter of Nazareth. Here Mr. Elliott had the distinction of being the carrier of the first Bethlehem Daily Times. He attended a New York cutting school, after which he again returned to Nazareth and engaged in business. Ill health, however, obliged him to soon relinquish the business, so he went in the truck farm and florist business at Elliott Heights, where he remained for twenty years. Later he sold his interest there and resided in South Bethlehem, where for four years he represented the First Ward in Borough Council and was one of its most progressive members. Of the staff of the Bethlehem Times, covering the large South Side territory, was born thirty-four years ago at Redington, the site of the Bethlehem Steel Company's munition plant, a son of Rose and the late Andrew Boyle. He began work with the Times as a copy and messenger boy, after spending a year in the South Bethlehem High School, where on his birthday, February 13, 1899, he was presented with a gold medal pin by the New York Life Saving Benevolent Association for highly meritorious bravery in saving a girl from drowning in the Lehigh Canal. The presentation was made a pleasing feature of exercises held in commemoration of Lincoln's Birthday. From the office he went to the pressroom and learned the trade. When P.F. Enright was elected to the assembly in 1902 he took up reporting work for the Times and later when the Allentown Democrat became a daily he "covered" the entire city for its owners, after spending four years with the Philadelphia North American where he was employed in the press room as tension man on their large sextuple presses. He also had the honor of being one of the tension men on the first big octuple press installed for this company. With Mr. Shankweiler he compiled the material for the Men of Bethlehem.
